

DT

- It is important to have a balanced diet; following the Eatwell Guide will support this.
- It is important to wash your hands before you cook or eat, and that you wash hands and equipment after handling raw food. Also it is important that food is cooked to the required temperature.
- Food is reared from animals on farms, for example pigs are reared for pork.
- Food is grown on farms, for example wheat which is grown for cereal.
- Food can be imported or exported across the world.

Geography

- A settlement is a place where someone lives.
- Land is used for residential, agricultural, recreational, transportation and commercial reasons.
- A trade link is a process of buying and selling products across countries.
- The EU buy products from China, and it can be cheaper for individual countries when they come together as the EU and buy together.

Art

- Adding media (like sand or chalk) to paint will create a different texture.
- Using different objects (like sponges or scrunched paper) will create a different effect.
- Lithography is an ancient form of printing on flat rock or sheet metal.
- Hokusai is an artist who uses printing in their artwork. Others include, Van Gogh, Manet, Monet and Renoir.
- Mixing primary colours and secondary colours make tertiary colours and these create different hues, moods, and tones.
- Adding white and black can change tones of colours.

Computing

- A program is a set of instructions.
- An algorithm provides a solution to a problem on a computer.
- We shouldn't share our personal details online.
- Scratch is an online coding website that we can use individually or with others.
- We shouldn't chat to people we don't know online.
- Our online presence is monitored.

RE

- Some of the 10 commandments are: do not steal, always tell the truth and do not take the life of another.
- Christians worship by going to church.
- Their sacred book is the Bible and they follow the 10 commandments.
- Diwali is a festival in Hinduism which is similar to other celebrations such as Christmas, Easter, Harvest and Bonfire Night.

HODGKIN CLASS A TASTE OF THE ORIENT

History

- Shang Dynasty was after Xia Dynasty and before Zhou Dynasty.
- It was in the Bronze Age.
- We know about the Shang Dynasty because of artefacts that have been found.
- The Shang began when Cheng Tang took over the Xia Dynasty.
- Life was better under the control of the Shang Dynasty.
- Shang people believed that their spirit would go to the afterlife. They had lots of gods and wrote on oracle bones.
- Fu Hao was a military general, high priestess and King Wu Ding's wife.
- The Shang Era ended in 1046BCE when King Wu of Zhou Dynasty overthrew Tang.
- The Shang created a clear hierarchy system, produced bronze tools and weapons and the earliest known writing system.
- Main cities in the Shang Dynasty included Zhengzhou and Anyang.

Music

- Most Chinese and Japanese music uses a pentatonic scale. A pentatonic scale only uses 5 notes in an octave.
- There are a variety of different music genres such as classic, pop, alternative, blues, rock, rap, disco, and reggae.
- Religious music can give people a chance to express their feelings and promote religious values.
- Music can also be an important part of culture such as at gatherings or festivals.

Science

- Materials are used for particular jobs based on their properties, such as glass is used for windows because it is hard and transparent.
- Soluble materials include sugar and salt and insoluble materials include sand and wax.
- You can recover substances from solutions using sieving, filtering and evaporating.
- There are some changes that are irreversible such as burning wood and baking a cake.